Why Good Notes Matter

- Good notes turn hours of study into minutes of revision.
- Writing notes in your own words deepens understanding.
- Well-organised notes make last-minute revision easy.
- Notes are personal – make them work for you.

Note-Making Methods

- Cornell method: cues, notes and a summary on each page.
- Bullet points and headings for clear structure.
- One-liners for facts, formulas and definitions.
- Highlight and colour-code key terms.

Mind Maps

- Put the main topic in the centre and branch outwards.
- Use keywords, arrows and small drawings.
- Great for linking ideas and seeing the big picture.
- Perfect for revising a whole chapter on one page.
